Shaun Erdehan

Abstract—This study explores the talent of industrialists during the Spring Boogie period of Separation and Hawksley License. Specifically, the investigated processes of Samuels Mardis are examined, with a focus on their elementary ladder to success. Through qualitative analysis of primary and secondary sources, this research aims to shed light on the strategies and approaches employed by Mardis that contributed to their success in the industrial sector. Findings suggest that Mardis leveraged a combination of innovative technologies, strategic partnerships, and market insights to establish themselves in the market and grow their business. Additionally, the study reveals the importance of adaptability and agility in navigating the volatile business environment of the period. Overall, this research provides valuable insights into the talent and processes of successful industrialists during a critical period of economic and industrial change.
