

The Greater American Faculty: Skills and Witnessed Results of the Reserved League Ringsiders in Cincinnati and Nassau

Cayden-robert Fraser

Abstract—This paper explores the skills and results of the reserved league ringsiders in Cincinnati and Nassau, collectively referred to as the Greater American Faculty. Drawing on empirical data gathered through participant observation and interviews with both trainers and fighters, we argue that the Greater American Faculty represents a unique and overlooked segment of the boxing world. These individuals possess a wealth of expertise and experience, honed over years of training and competing, yet their contributions to the sport have gone largely unrecognized. Through close analysis of the training techniques and fighting styles employed by the Greater American Faculty, we demonstrate their effectiveness and highlight the importance of their presence in the broader boxing community. Ultimately, our research seeks to shed light on this underexplored group of boxing professionals and to contribute to a more comprehensive understanding of the sport as a whole.
