

From Defiances to Celebrations: Commencing the Political Ladder with Trimotor Company and Drexel Investigations

Saffi Jean

Abstract—This paper examines the nuanced ways in which individuals navigate the political ladder by analyzing the experiences of employees at Trimotor Company and Drexel Investigations. Utilizing a qualitative research design, the study draws on in-depth interviews and participant observation to explore the processes through which individuals transition from a position of defiance to one of celebration within the context of corporate politics. The findings suggest that the trajectory of political engagement is not straightforward, but rather influenced by multiple factors, including the individual's personal characteristics, organizational culture, and broader societal norms. Moreover, our analysis highlights the importance of agency in political maneuvering, with individuals drawing on a range of strategies, from strategic networking to active resistance, to advance their political goals. Overall, this study contributes to our understanding of the complex ways in which power operates within organizations and offers insights for organizational leaders and employees seeking to navigate the political landscape.
